The Widow Valencia was a good woman. When the cultists of Darkness took everything, your home, your family, even one of your eyes, she led you back to the Light. She took care of you, just like her other "grandchildren," until you were ready for Archanon's gift. And once you became a priest of the Light, you took care of her until she passed on. Now, where you had one family, you have two. You have the church, and the family that "Grandmother" Valencia made from those she found in need. And so, tonight, you and your "cousins" will commemorate her life during the harvest festival of a town famous for its celebrations. Together you will help her shine light through the darkness one more night.
